REPORT.

To His Excellency Hugh Viscount Ebrington, Lord Lieutenant General, and General Governor of Ireland.

May it please your Excellency,

I.—1. We, the undersigned Commissioners of National Education in Ireland, beg leave to submit to your Excellency this our Sixth Report.

2. Pursuant to an order of the House of Commons, we made a return, in July last, of all schools aided or built by us up to the 1st of January, 1839.

3. We had at that period 1,384 schools, which were attended by 181,264 children. We had also undertaken to make 190 grants to schools which had not, at that time, come into existence, and the number in attendance upon which, it was expected, would amount to 38,000. The total number of schools would therefore be 1,574, and of children about 219,000.

4. We now give a list in the Appendix of the schools which we had in operation on the 31st of December last, and we specify opposite to each the number of children in attendance upon it, according to the rolls for the half-year ending the preceding 30th of September. We also give a list of expected schools, towards the erection of which we have undertaken to make grants; and we have in like manner set opposite to each the expected attendance upon it.

5. The schools in operation amounted to 1,581; of these 1,479 were in existence on the preceding 30th of September, and the number of children in attendance upon them, according to the rolls for the half-year ending on that day, was 192,971. The remaining 102 schools were opened after the 30th of September, therefore no half-yearly rolls have been, as yet, received from them; but from the general information which we have respecting them, we think the number in attendance upon them may be stated at about 12,000, making altogether about 205,000.

6. The expected schools amounted to 357, and the estimated attendance upon them to about 63,000.

7. The foregoing statement shows that we had, at the commencement of 1839, 1,384 schools in existence, which were attended by 181,264 children, and that at the termination of the year the number of schools in existence was increased from 1,384 to 1,581, and the attendance of children from 181,264 to 205,000; also, that the expected schools, at the commencement of 1839, amounted to 190, and the expected attendance of children to 38,000; and that, at the termination of the year, the number of expected schools was increased from 190 to 357, and the expected attendance from 38,000 to 63,000; making altogether an increase, actual and expected, of 364 National Schools, and of 49,000 scholars.

II.—8. While the system of National Education has been thus spreading so widely through Ireland in general, it has lately received a check in one district through the efforts of a Roman Catholic prelate, who formerly sought aid for a school, which, under the circumstances of the case, the Board could not grant. Several schools in those parts of the counties of Galway and Mayo, in which he exercises spiritual authority, have ceased to be in connexion with us, and the operation of others, which are vested in trustees under the Board, has been suspended until new trustees and managers shall have been appointed. The patrons of all were, with a single exception, Roman Catholic clergymen, and appear to have acted entirely under the orders of the prelate alluded to. In one communication only have they stated any grounds, save his will, for withdrawing from the Board, and in that communication, which is signed by 13 clergymen, they express themselves as follows:—

"We, the undersigned, feeling that the system of National Education, as at present constituted, can never enjoy the confidence of the Irish people, and, considering the abuses that have been proved in the allocation of the funds entrusted to that body, do hereby, in conference assembled, withdraw ourselves from any further connexion with the Board of Education, and we request the Secretary to signify to the Commissioners, that we shall entertain no further communication or connexion with them."

9. Your Excellency will observe, that no one objection is here made either to the principles of the National System, or to any act of the Board towards the persons who have thus separated from it. When they knew the system only as a theory, they embraced it as a means of good, and now, after having had experience of it for years, they neither state that it has disappointed them in practice, nor that it has proved in any degree injurious or inconvenient, yet they have come to the opinion—assigning no reason whatever for having done so—that "it can never enjoy the confidence of the Irish people." The benefits, however, that it is diffusing through the country; the cordial support which it receives from the Roman Catholic clergy in general, whose flocks compose so great a portion of the poorer classes; and the rapid progress which it has already made, and continues to make, notwithstanding the obstacles which passion and prejudice have opposed to it, lead us to a very different conclusion.

10. For nearly the whole of the last century, the Government of Ireland laboured to promote Protestant education, and tolerated no other. Large grants of public money were voted for having children educated in the Protestant faith, while it was made a transportable offence in a Roman Catholic (and if the party returned, high treason) to act as a schoolmaster, or assistant to a schoolmaster, or even as a tutor in a private family.* The Acts passed for this purpose continued in force from 1709 to 1782. They were then repealed, but Parliament continued to vote money for the support only of schools conducted on principles which were regarded by the great body of the Roman Catholics as exclusively Protestant until the present system was established.†

11. It guarantees to parents and guardians of all communions, according to the civil rights with which the laws of the land invest them, the power of determining what religious instruction the children over whom they have authority shall receive, and it prohibits all attempts at enforcing any, either on Protestant or Roman Catholic children, to which their parents or guardians object.

12. This is the great principle of the system. It has therefore been earnestly embraced from the first by the Roman Catholic clergy and laity in particular, and been hailed by the poor as one of the greatest boons that the Government had ever bestowed upon them.‡

13. It shall ever be our constant object, as it uniformly has been, to administer it with fairness and justice to all; and seeking only to do impartial good, we trust, whatever difficulties we may meet with, that we shall be enabled, under Providence, to overcome them by the force of reason, charity, and truth.

14. With respect to the statement, that abuses "have been proved in the allocation of the funds," we should not have known what was meant by it, if we had not heard of attempts to make the people of the province of Connaught believe, that they had not a fair share of the grants for education. We presume that this is what is meant; but the following extract from the first document in the Appendix to our last Report shows, that for such a supposition there is not the slightest foundation.

"The Commissioners were enabled, out of the sum granted to them in 1837, to dispose of all applications then before them which had been received prior to October, 1836, and upon which their queries had been satisfactorily answered. There remained 92 on which further information was required. Of these 26 were from Ulster, 34 from Munster, 26 from Leinster, and six from Connaught.

"There were before the Commissioners, on the 31st of December last, 145 applications from Ulster, 108 from Munster, 96 from Leinster, and sixty-five from Connaught."

15. The last paragraph had reference to the 31st of December, 1838. In addition to the information which it affords, we beg leave to refer to the return to which we have already adverted, for an account of the building grants made to the several provinces to the 1st of January, 1839, and which are as follows:—

|---|---|---|---|
| "Ulster . . . . . | 9,722 | 8 | 11 |
| Munster . . . . . | 9,584 | 4 | 10 |
| Leinster . . . . . | 11,688 | 14 | 10 |
| Connaught . . . . . | 10,824 | 5 | 7." |

* See 8th Anne, c. 3, and 9th William III. c. 1.

† See the annexed extract from Lord Stanley's Letter (No. 1) to the Duke of Leinster on the original formation of the National Board.

16. It thus appears that the building grants made to Connaught, have exceeded those to provinces which greatly surpass it in population. Hence, indeed, persons given to uncharitable surmise, and disposed to take surmise as proof, might conclude that Connaught, instead of having been neglected by the Board, as has been untruly asserted, had experienced undue favour from it; but not so is the fact. The applications from Connaught for aid towards pre-existing schools, were much fewer than from other provinces, owing, probably, to a previous want of schools in it; but the applications for new schools have been for that same reason more numerous, and therefore so have been the grants.

III.—17. We had at the close of the last year 136 applications undisposed of, and having received several since, we have altogether 245 now before us, of which 62 are from ministers of the synod of Ulster. The whole of these 62 appear consequent on a grant which we have made to the Rev. Robert Stewart, D.D., a member of that body, and to which, therefore, and as it was attended by peculiar circumstances, we think it necessary particularly to advert.

18. Your Excellency received a deputation from the school directory of the Synod on the 24th of January last, when such members of the Board as were able to attend were present at your desire. Upon that occasion your Excellency stated in substance :—1st. That the principle of the National System was one of equal right and justice to all classes of Her Majesty's subjects, and therefore that no advantage, save what was equally open to all, could be given to the members of any particular communion. 2d. That the Board, having found it difficult to get full and satisfactory answers to the queries which have heretofore been sent to applicants for aid, had lately changed its practice, and had resolved in future to send queries only to its own superintendents, who would communicate with the parties to each application, make the necessary local inquiries, and then report the circumstances to the Board for its consideration. 3d. That according to the fundamental principles of the system, the national schools must be open to children of all religious denominations, nevertheless that the patrons of each might have such religious instruction given in it, during school hours, as they thought proper, provided such an arrangement was made as that the instruction so given should not interfere with or impede the literary business of the school, and that no children should be required to attend or be present at it whose parents or guardians disapproved of their being so.—These explanations were deemed so far satisfactory, and it was arranged that an application should be made to the Board for aid towards some one school, the actual circumstances and rules of which should be stated; that the Board should come to a decision upon it without waiting in the particular case for any previous reference to their local superintendent, and that, whatever was done by the Board with it, should be done also upon every other similarly circumstanced.

19. Upon this understanding, an application, of which the following is a copy, was laid before us by Doctor Stewart, accompanied by other members of the deputation, all of whom approved of it :—

"To the Commissioners of National Education.

"The name of the school is Correen; it is situated in the townland of Correen, in the parish of Skerry, barony of Lower Antrim and county of Antrim, and is not near to any house of worship. Post town, Broughshane, about one mile and a half to the south-east. It was founded in 1818, built by private subscription, and a building grant of £30 from the Kildare Place Society. The house is 26 feet by 16 feet in the clear, and 7 feet high in the side wall. It is built of stone and lime, slated, and well fitted up with desks. It is all in one room, and wholly employed for the use of the children; it is held by lease, rent free.

"The school is under the management of a committee, chosen by the parents of the children; patron or superintendent, Rev. Robert Stewart, D.D. The times for reading the Holy Scripture and for catechetical instruction are so arranged as not to interfere with or impede the scientific or secular business of the school, and no child whose parents or guardians object is required to be present, or take part in those exercises; and no obstruction shall be offered to the children of such parents receiving such instruction elsewhere as they may think proper. The school opens in the summer at half-past nine A.M., and continues till half-past five P.M., with the interval of one hour, from one till two, for dinner. In the winter it opens at ten and continues till three. In both summer and winter it is held during six days of the week. The school is open upon all days of the week to the public of all denominations, who have liberty to inspect the registry, witness the mode of teaching, and see that the regulations of the school are faithfully observed; but no persons, except members of the Committee and the officers of the Board, are permitted, ex officio, to interfere in the business or management of the school. The books used, in addition to the Scriptures and the Westminster Catechism, are those sanctioned by the Kildare Place Society. The number of children in attendance is 42, of which 20 are males. There is a registry and daily report book faithfully kept in the school. The children pay for reading 2*s*., writing and accounts 2*s*. 6*d*., English grammar, geography, &c., 3*s*. per quarter.

"In addition to a grant of books, the aid required is the sum of £8 to pay at the above rates for children, whose parents, from poverty, are unable to pay, and whatever gratuity the inspector of the Board may report the teacher to deserve.

"Signed on behalf of the school,

"ROBERT STEWART, Patron.

"Broughshane, January 24th, 1840."

20. It appears to us that the rules of the school for which aid was thus sought were compatible with the principles of the National System. We therefore granted the desired salary of £8 a-year and a stock of books.

21. The school, as your Excellency will observe, is conducted by a committee chosen by the parents of the children; the time for religious instruction is so arranged as not to interfere with the scientific or secular business of the school; no children are required to be present at it whose parents or guardians object to their being so, and such children are permitted to absent themselves whenever their parents or guardians think fit, for the purpose of receiving such religious instruction as they may provide for them. All this, in substance, agrees with the regulations of a school, called the Temple Meeting-house School, to which we granted assistance in 1833, after having explained our views fully in a letter, which has since been published with our reports, and of which the following is a copy:—

"SIR,—I had the honour of submitting to the Commissioners of Education your letter of the 16th instant, in which you desire to know whether aid can be extended by them towards the Temple Meeting-house School, the business of which you state to be conducted in the following manner, namely, that it opens at ten o'clock and closes at three; that the attention of the pupils is confined until two each day to the usual literary education; that the books used by the children are those formerly supplied by the Kildare Place Society; that the last hour is employed in reading and instruction in the Holy Scriptures by such pupils as are advanced to an Old and New Testament class, if permitted by their parents to join in such an exercise; that those who are not so advanced, or who are not allowed by their parents to read the word of God, may either pursue the usual routine of business of the school, or retire if they please; and that Saturday is employed in directing the attention of those who have not entered a scripture class to what they may have been doing during the week, and in catechising those who have in their knowledge of the scriptures. The Commissioners, having considered your letter, desire me to state that the regulations of the Temple Meeting-house School appear to them to agree in principle with those by which they are governed.

"The rule that the hours from two till three of each day, except Saturday, shall be employed in reading and instruction in the Holy Scriptures, is quite compatible with the regulations of the Commissioners, provided that such children only as are directed by their parents to attend, be then allowed to continue in the school, and that all others do then retire. And with respect to the exercise on Saturday, it also is compatible with their rules, provided that those children only shall attend upon that day whose parents direct that they shall join in reading or receiving instruction in the Holy Scriptures, so that an opportunity be thus afforded for all others to receive such religious instruction at that time as their parents or guardians shall provide for them. As you mention that you occasionally visit the school to mark the progress and administer such instruction as the circumstances and capacity of the children may require, the Commissioners desire me to observe, that it is of the essence of their rules, that religious instruction should be given only at the time specifically appointed for that purpose, and that children whose parents do not direct them to be present at it, should previously retire. The Commissioners having thus explained their views, and anticipating that you will conform to them, direct me to signify their readiness to make a grant toward the support of the Temple Meeting-house school, on your returning the paper, which I herewith transmit, properly filled and signed.

"I have the honour to be, Sir,

"Your obedient servant,

(Signed) "THOS. F. KELLY, Secretary."

22. In the Temple Meeting-house school, the time for religious instruction was from two to three o'clock; but the particular time is immaterial, provided it be, as it is in the present case, so arranged as not to interfere with, or impede the scientific or secular business of the school; and that no children shall be required to attend, or be present at it, whose parents or guardians object to their being so. Then as to affording a general opportunity for religious instruction, children who did not take part in the religious exercises of the Temple Meeting-house school, were allowed to absent themselves on Saturday for the purpose of receiving religious instruction elsewhere; and in the Correen school, they are allowed to absent themselves for the same purpose, whenever their parents may direct them to do so.

23. We may here observe that there has been much misapprehension with respect to the principle of the national system, as to religious instruction. It has been supposed that the Commissioners assumed a right to direct and control the religious education of the children attending the national schools, but such a notion is altogether groundless. It is entirely at variance not only with our practice, but with documents which the Board has from the first put forth in explanation of its views. Whoever refers to these must see, that we leave the particular religious education of children of all denominations in the hands of such persons as their parents or guardians may choose to entrust with it, taking care only that children shall not be, through the direct or indirect operation of the rules adopted in any school, either prevented from attending it, for general, literary, and secular instruction, or debarred by any compulsory attendance upon it from opportunity of receiving such religious instruction as their parents or guardians may provide for them.

24. It will easily be understood, that regulations which in this point of view might be, in some schools unobjectionable and attended with no inconvenience, might, where local circumstances were different, be at variance with our fundamental principles.

25. We should also state, that we by no means insist on having the Scripture extracts published by our authority, read in any of the national schools, nor would we allow them to be read during the time of secular or literary instruction in any school attended by any children whose parents or guardians objected to them. In such case, we should prohibit the use of them except at the times of religious instruction, when the persons giving it, might use them or not, as they should think proper.*

26. It may be proper to add, that before granting aid towards the building of a school, we have, ever since the appointment of our district superintendents in 1838, required them to ascertain whether any arrangement had been made for giving religious instruction in the school, should it be established; but we have never required this information from them before granting aid by way of salary, or of books to schools already in existence. In the former case, we have to act à priori, and consequently, to guard against contingencies; in the latter, we have to deal with actual circumstances, and we judge of these as we find them, always taking care to give no aid unless to a school which is bonâ fide open for secular instruction to children of all communions, and which does not debar any from opportunities of receiving such religious instruction as their parents or guardians may provide for them.

27. We should add, that where the grant is only of salary and books, the Board acts upon the statement of the parties applying, provided it be satisfactory, without binding them literally to the rules of the Board; because, should anything occur hereafter which might appear contrary to the spirit of the rules, the Board has it in its power to have the evil corrected, or, if it be not, to withdraw the salary; but in making a grant for building, as the Commissioners make it irrevocably, they require the parties receiving it to bind themselves irrevocably in return to a strict observance of the rules as in force at the time the grant is made, and to have the school vested in trustees for that purpose.

28. We are aware of course, that schools in which the patrons themselves provide religious instruction for children only of a particular communion, leaving it to the parents or guardians to provide it for all others, bear in some degree a peculiar religious aspect; but schools of such a description, when connected with Presbyterian meeting-houses, appear to us to stand upon the same principle as schools connected with communities of the Roman Catholic persuasion, and to these we have been, from the commencement of our labours, granting aid, having first communicated with his late Majesty's Government upon the subject, and been sanctioned by it in doing so.

29. Indeed schools in general, which are under the direction of persons only of one communion, may be considered to bear a distinctive stamp; but although we are required to give a preference to applications signed by persons of different persuasions, we are not required to restrict aid to cases of that description.

IV.—30. We deemed it expedient to require the attendance in Dublin of our several superintendents at the close of the last year, with the view of obtaining, by means of a personal examination of them, full and accurate information on the state of the schools in their respective districts. Their Reports were in general very satisfactory as to those schools which are conducted in houses built by aid from the Board, and by teachers trained at our normal establishment. The Reports were also favourable as to several others, but many are still kept in unsuitable buildings, and are under teachers of inferior qualifications; even these, however, have been improved by the frequent inspection, and by the supplies of books and school requisites which the Board affords.

* See the annexed copy of a letter (No. 3) which was addressed to one of the superintendents on the 31st August, 1838, and a copy of which was immediately afterwards transmitted to each of the others.

31. We have trained altogether 524 teachers. We have now in training 60, and arrangements are in progress which will enable us to accommodate a much greater number.

32. Our model farm, which is connected with our normal establishment, is at present only in its infancy, but it is well conducted, and we have no doubt that the teachers under training, as well as the agricultural pupils, of whom there are at present 12, derive much benefit from the instruction they receive, and the judicious system of farming which they see practised there.

33. In our former Reports, we expressed our regret that we had not the means to remunerate our teachers in proportion to the importance and value of their labours. We have now, however, been enabled to adopt measures for classifying and increasing the salaries of deserving teachers, by which we hope the whole body will be gradually elevated and improved. The particulars of the arrangements are given in the Appendix.

34. The model schools are in a flourishing condition, and continue to attract a large share of public attention. There are now in attendance upon them, as stated in the Appendix,

752 boys,
558 girls.
329 infants.

35. We annex a statement of our receipts and expenditure to the 31st December, 1839.

(No. 1.)

EXTRACT from Lord STANLEY'S LETTER to the Duke of Leinster on the original formation of the National Board.

"The Commissioners in 1812 recommended the appointment of a Board of this description to superintend a system of education, from which should be banished even the suspicion of proselytism, and which, admitting children of all religious persuasions, should not interfere with the peculiar tenets of any. The Government of the day imagined, that they had found a superintending body, acting upon a system such as was recommended, and entrusted the distribution of the national grants to the care of the Kildare-street Society. His Majesty's present Government are of opinion, that no private society, deriving a part, however small, of their annual income from private sources, and only made the channel of the munificence of the Legislature without being subject to any direct responsibility, could adequately and satisfactorily accomplish the end proposed; and while they do full justice to the liberal views with which that society was originally instituted, as well as to the fairness with which they have in most instances endeavoured to carry their views into effect, they cannot but be sensible, that one of the leading principles of that society was calculated to defeat its avowed objects, as experience has subsequently proved that it has. The determination to enforce in all their schools the reading of the Holy Scriptures without note or comment was undoubtedly taken with the purest motives; with the wish at once to connect religious with moral and literary education, and at the same time not to run the risk of wounding the peculiar feelings of any sect, by catechetical instruction or comments, which might tend to subjects of polemical controversy; but it seems to have been overlooked, that the principles of the Roman Catholic Church (to which, in any system intended for general diffusion throughout Ireland, the bulk of the pupils must necessarily belong) were totally at variance with this principle, and that the reading of the Holy Scriptures without note or comment by children must be peculiarly obnoxious to a church which denies even to adults the right of unaided interpretation of the sacred volume in articles of religious belief.

"Shortly after its institution, although the society prospered and extended its operations under the fostering care of the Legislature, this vital defect began to be noticed, and the Roman Catholic clergy began to exert themselves with energy and success against a system to which they were in principle opposed, and which they feared might lead in its results to proselytism, even although no such object were contemplated by its promoters. When this opposition arose, founded on such grounds, it soon became manifest, that the system could not become one of national education."

(No. 2.)

COPY of a CIRCULAR LETTER addressed by a late Roman Catholic Prelate to the Clergy under him, upon the first announcement of the National System of Education.

"REV. DEAR SIR, "Carlow, December 26, 1831.

"You have been made acquainted, through advertisements in the public newspapers, with an outline of the plan or terms on which the funds placed by Parliament at the disposal of the Lord Lieutenant, to promote the education of the children of the Irish people, will be dispensed.

"These terms had been long sought for by repeated applications to Government, and by petitions to Parliament, and have at length with much difficulty, been obtained. They are not perhaps the very best which could be devised, but they are well suited to the especial circumstances of this distracted country. They provide for the religious instruction of children by their respective pastors or persons appointed for that purpose by them, as often as those pastors can deem it necessary. This instruction shall be given on one or two days in the week, and may be given, as I hope it will, every day.

"The school-house to be built at the public expense is to be secured to the public. This is all the Commissioners require, and this is just, nay, it is necessary, in order to guard against individual rapacity.

"The Commissioners claim to have control over the books to be used in schools. This appears an assumption from which evil, as well as good, might follow. It is good, that useless or immoral books be utterly, and by authority, excluded. This precaution is idle in our regard, but it may not be so elsewhere, and 'Law,' says the apostle, 'is placed, not for the just man, but for the unjust.' It gives no trouble to the man who acts properly; it gives pain, and brings punishment only to him who omits or transgresses his duty.

"This assumption would produce evil if the Commissioners sought to corrupt the education of the Irish people. We defy them to do so, even if they were so minded; but they are not. Their purpose is upright; their views are to promote education, religious as well as literary, and to preserve full and entire freedom of conscience. Should bad men succeed to the present Commissioners, and attempt to corrupt the education of youth, we are not dumb dogs who know not how to bark; we can guard our flocks, and do so easily by the simple process of excluding the Commissioners and their books and agents from our schools. We might, by doing so, forfeit the aid which they would, if the supposition were realized, be entitled to withhold, but in withholding it, they would be answerable to Parliament, to which we also would have access.

"The lesson on Christian charity which the Commissioners wish to have inculcated is one dear to our hearts; I hope they will have it printed as a heading to all their spelling and reading lessons, and placed as a frontispiece to all their books.

"The rule which requires that all teachers henceforth to be employed be provided, from some model school, with a certificate of their competency, will aid us in a work of great difficulty, to wit, that of suppressing hedge schools, and placing youth under the direction of competent teachers, and of those only.

"The power claimed by the Commissioners to fine, suspend, or remove teachers, is somewhat exorbitant, but the exercise of it might in certain cases, where religious differences or religious parties arose, be salutary. If this power were exercised to the detriment of any well conducted school, which is scarcely possible, we have the same remedy against its exercise that we could resort to in the case of the introduction of improper books; this claim, therefore, is not one to which we are called upon to object.

"During the many years in which education has been in this country a source of religious dissension, our school houses have been built, and generally attached to our places of worship, whilst the school houses built by parliamentary aid have been raised in detached places.

"Some years past, it would have been easy to combine education, and have only one school-house in place of two; not so at present, and time only can effect that union which has hitherto been prevented at great sacrifices, and at great expense. I notice this, that you may be enabled, in your application or reply to the Commissioners, to point out the true and very sufficient reason, why in these dioceses so well supplied with school-houses, few requisitions for aid to assist schools can, as yet, be made in that joint manner, by Catholic and Protestant clergymen, which the Commissioners so justly recommend.

"Having premised thus much, I now beg you will, without unnecessary delay, apply to the Commissioners before-mentioned, for aid, whether to build, or to furnish, or to support, as the case may warrant, each of your parochial schools.

"The form in which the application (always to be couched in the most respectful language) should be made is a matter of indifference; as I suppose, should it be thought worthy of attention, a paper in the form of queries, containing the terms on which aid can be given, will be transmitted to you by the Secretary of the Commissioners; and on your reply to such paper will depend the decision on your claims.

"You may take the following as a skeleton draft of the memorial to be prepared on behalf of any school.

"To the Right Honourable and Honourable the Commissioners of Education, &c., &c.

"The Memorial of the undersigned Clergymen (or P. Priest as the case may be) and other inhabitants of the Parish of ——— or Town of ———.

"Respectfully sheweth,

"That memorialists have built (or intended to build) a school-house in which (express the average number) children are (or will be) educated. That the funds at the disposal of the memorialists are insufficient for the building the same, (or fitting up and finishing same with requisites, and maintaining a competent teacher therein). Memorialists, therefore, willing to conform to the published rules of the Commissioners, humbly hope for such aid as Commissioners in their wisdom may think proper to grant.

"And Memorialists will ever pray.

"Wishing you the choicest graces of this auspicious time, when God appeared on earth to establish peace and good will,

"I remain,

"Rev. dear Sir,

"Your faithful humble servant in Christ,

(Signed) "J. DOYLE."

(No. 3.)

COPY of a LETTER which was addressed to one of the Superintendents, on the 31st of August, 1838, and a Copy of which was immediately afterwards transmitted to each of the others.

"In your report on the Shanhallymore school, the reading of the Scripture extracts appears to be a subject upon which you left a memorandum in the Report book: this has given much offence, as it has been construed to be an interference on the part of the Board, through you, with the religious instruction of the children.

"You are not to leave any suggestion on this subject in future, either in the Report book of the school, or by word of mouth to the teacher or other person. Simply confine yourself on this subject to registering in the tabular form of your Report sheet to me, the actual number who do read the Scripture extracts, or state that none read them, if the fact be so.

"By a perusal of the Commissioners' regulations, you will perceive that they are totally silent with regard to this book, leaving its use or non-use, as they do of all their other books, wholly for the discretion of those locally interested in the management of the school."

| Mistresses to teach Needlework | 6 ditto. |

Masters and Mistresses not sufficiently qualified for Classification to constitute a Probationary Class, and to receive at most £8 per annum each.

All new Teachers appointed to conduct National Schools, from the 1st of April, 1840, will be placed in the Probationary Class, in which they must remain for at least one year. They are then to be examined by the Superintendent, or, if in the Training School, by the Professors, and such as are deemed sufficiently qualified to be placed in a higher Class, will receive the full amount to which they are entitled from the date of their appointment being confirmed by the Commissioners.

The present Classification of National Teachers is not to be considered permanent; it may be forfeited by misconduct, violation of the Rules, or inefficiency.

Special Examinations will be held at stated periods, to be hereafter notified, with a view of raising meritorious Teachers to a higher Class, or of depressing others, who may have conducted themselves improperly, or whose Schools have declined in consequence of their inattention.

The Commissioners will require, in conformity with their Rules, that a further income to the Teachers be secured either by Local Subscriptions or School Fees.

Fixed Salaries having been attached to each Class, no applications for a further increase will be hereafter entertained.
